PROGRAM OVERVIEW
This workshop will help participants gain skills in delivering high impact training sessions by identifying the learning styles and through the use of fun to deliver content. In this two day workshop, participants will learn new ideas, techniques and tools to accelerate learning in training. They will build on their current knowledge and acquire new techniques to engage and involve people in experiential learning. Participants will work in teams to create an activity based learning environment that will involve role plays, games and improvisations. Participants will have numerous opportunities for skills practice largely in group settings. Continuous feedback will be provided by the facilitator and peers.

PARTICIPANTS’ PROFILE
It is an open workshop which is suitable for professionals who want to polish and enhance their training delivery skills. More specifically the workshop will benefit Human Resource Management & Development professionals who want to explore and develop a fun based approach to training and learning.
